COLUMBUS, Ohio, is to have a Nicolson paved street.

FLOUR continues to tumble. It would be gratifying to announce that the sharpers who controlled the markets and created the panic prices tumbled with it into bankruptcy.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT OFFICERS of Baltimore are out on a tour of inspection, visiting the principal New England cities, and taking notes on Yankee institutions and systems of municipal government.

THE subject of boiler explosions has received attention, and we understand that the coming Legislature will be memoralized to extend the special act regarding boilers, now in force in Philadelphia, to Pittsburgh.

A FIRE, attended with sad consequences, occurred in Chicago, yesterday morning at an early hour. A boarding house was destroyed, and it is thought that eleven persons were burned to death. Three bodies have been recovered.

WM. LLOYD GARRISON is being made feel the depth of admiration and esteem in which he is held by lovers of liberty in England. He has been tendered a public breakfast in London, at which Hon. John Bright is expected to preside.

THE feeling in Ireland for the Fenian cause is evidenced in the imposing funeral demonstration at Waterford awarded a victim to the recent riot. Fully five thousand persons, wearing the green, followed the corpse to its last resting place.

THE Boston Post facetiously remarks: "Thad. Stevens is whetting his teeth to devour Attorney General Stanberry, having failed to masticate President Johnson with impeachment sauce." In the milk of human kindness that berry might prove palatable to lovers of small fruit.

THE new Dominion of Canada wants a design for a flag. A large number of our Irish fellow citizens suggest a field of green with a golden harp in the centre as the most appropriate banner for that country. They have the will to force such a flag on our neighbors, but lack the way to do it.

THE wholesale merchants of Cleveland have set an example which might be followed by our own, in resolving to close their establishments during the summer months at an early hour, and on Saturdays at three o'clock. This rule is adopted that employees may have leisure time for needful recreation.

CINCINNATI is progressing in wickedness. On Sunday and Monday last there were enacted in its vicinity two murders, and three persons destroyed their own lives. This, with numerous small crimes, together with ninety common cases in the tombs, is doing very well for a city of the proportions of Cincinnati.

THE cession of the Russian possessions to the United States, is to be done up in colors by Leutze, the artist. The Sewards, Senator Sumner, Minister Bodisilo, and others, are to be grouped in the picture illustrating the important purchase. The subject is cold and can hardly be warmed into animation by the artist.

LATE advices are more favorable to the cause of the heroic Cretan insurrectionists. Suffering repeated defeat, with great loss, the Turks, exasperated into demons, with fire destroyed villages left unprotected and indiscriminately massacred defenseless people. By this atrocity the savage Turks have invited intervention from Christian Powers.

A NORTH CAROLINA JOURNAL makes the startling disclosure that Freedmen have been induced to enter aboard ships, ostensibly as emigrants to Liberia, to be taken and sold into bondage in Cuba. We do not credit the statement, although the recent announcement that the slave trade had been reopened in Cuba, and that several cargoes of negroes had been landed on its shores, seems in a measure to confirm the truth of the report.

SENATOR HENDERSON, of Missouri, has been on an excursion to the plains out west, and taken especial care to investigate the Indian outrages. He says that the troubles have not been half so serious as reported, and attributes the difficulties to the dealings of unprincipled traders. Mr. Henderson is Chairman of the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs, and his statement will have some weight in putting poor "Lo" right on the record.

"MY OPINION" and "my policy" do not go very well together in the interpretation of the Military Reconstruction Act, else the mind of Andrew Johnson has taken a wonderful change since his veto message on the subject. In that document he said:

> The bill places all the people of the ten States therein named under the absolute domination of military rulers, and the preamble undertakes to give the reason upon which it is justified. It declares that there exists in those States no legal governments and no adequate protection for life or property, and asserts the necessity of enforcing peace and good order within their limits.
> The excuse given for the bill in the preamble is admitted by the bill itself not to be real. The military rule which it establishes is plainly to be used not for any purpose of order or for the prevention of crime, but solely as a means of coercing the people in the adoption of principles and measures to which it is known that they are opposed, and upon which they have an undeniable right to exercise their own judgment.
> The power thus given to the commanding officer over all the people of each district is that of an absolute monarch—his mere will is to have the place of all law. The law of the States is now the only rule applicable to the subject placed under his control, and that is completely displaced by the clause which declares all interference of the State authority to be null and void. He alone is permitted to determine what are the rights of persons and property, and he may protect them in such way as in his discretion may seem proper.
> It reduces the whole population of the ten States—all persons, of every color, sex, and condition, and every stranger within their limits—to the most abject and degrading slavery. No master ever had a control so absolute over his slaves as this bill gives to the military officers over both white and colored persons. It wipes away every vestige of Republican government in ten States, and puts the life, liberty, and honor of all the people in each of them under the domination of a single person, clothed with unlimited authority.
> I take it to be clear, under the bill, that the military commander may condemn to death without even the form of a trial by a military commission; so that the life of the condemned may depend on the will of two men instead of one. It is plain that the authority here given to the military officer amounts to absolute despotism. But, to make it still more unendurable, the bill provides that it may be delegated to as many subordinates as he chooses to appoint; for it declares that he shall "punish or cause to be punished." Such a power has not been wielded by any monarch in England for more than five hundred years.

MIDNIGHT.

THE SURRATT TRIAL.

CONTINUATION OF TESTIMONY.

Other Witnesses Identify Him as Being in Washington on the Day of the Assassination.

[By Telegraph to Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 18, 1867.

The trial of Surratt was resumed to-day before Judge Fisher. The prisoner's brother occupied the seat by him.

Sergeant Joseph M. Deyer was recalled and testified:—As we passed out H street, a woman raised a window of a house and asked what was wrong down town. I told her President Lincoln had been shot. She asked who had done it, and I told her Booth. She asked how I knew that. I told her a man who knew him saw him on that night. The moon was light enough to see objects distinctly. I believe the moon was up, but cannot say if it was at full. The woman was an elderly lady, but I could not say whether stout or otherwise, but resembled the body of Mrs. Surratt, who was tried at the Arsenal. Have seen the house since, it is No. 541 H street. The house is on the right hand side of the street going towards Camp Barry. (Witness then described the house known as the Surratt house.) The woman asked questions in an ordinary tone, but witness does not recollect. The woman was much excited. When witness saw Booth, Surratt and the other party at the Theatre, neither of them was disguised.

On cross-examination by Mr. Merrick, witness, in the main, repeated his direct testimony. In answering the question put by the prosecution: Why did you describe the third party as a neatly dressed man and not mention his name, as you knew him to be Surratt? He said: Because I did not think it was necessary until I was asked the question.

Q. Why did you use Booth's name and not Surratt's? A. Because I did not deem it necessary to mention Surratt's name.

Q. Were you not told not to name him until asked? A. No, sir, I was not.

Witness saw Surratt in March last in the jail here. He was admitted by Gen. Carrington to see if he could identify him as the man who was under the gas light that night, and recognized him immediately. He did not tell Surratt for what purpose he went there, but when he saw him, accosted him with "Hello, John." The face witness saw in the jail was the face he saw in his dreams and the face he saw in front of the Theatre.

Q. And this is the man? (pointing to Surratt.) A. Yes, sir, that is the face.

Q. Would you have known that face if you had seen it elsewhere? A. Yes, sir. It is a face once seen is not easily forgotten. I did not request to go to the jail to see him; I went because I was requested to do so.

Mr. Merrick asked the witness what his religion was, but withdrew the question upon an objection made by Mr. Carrington.

The witness was interrogated at length as to his testimony before the Military Commission at the time of the assassination trial, and endorsed what he there said, and insisted upon its correctness. In some slight particulars, as to heighth of men, &c., there was a variation, and a strong effort was made to make the statement contradictory.

Daniel C. Reed swore he had known the prisoner from quite a boy, and saw him on Pennsylvania avenue at 2½ o'clock the day of the assassination. I have had a nodding or bowing acquaintance with the prisoner as he passed; there was a recognition by both. His dress on that occasion attracted my attention. His dress looked of country manufacture; was got up in very good style; had upon his feet a new pair of brass spurs with large blue rowels, and evidently were bran new. He wore on his head a felt hat, not very low crowned, wide brimmed; hat was straw colored; he was passing up the avenue at an ordinary pace.

Mr. Bradley desired to have the privilege of recalling Reed for cross examination at some future time, after the defence should have consulted with a witness now out of the city.

Mr. Carrington objected to this course as being without precedent, and held there was no rule of Court that justified such a course.

Mr. Bradley argued it was a matter within the discretion of the Court. The defense expected to prove that Reed had made a statement out of Court contradictory of what had been testified to in Court.

The decision of the question was reserved until to-morrow morning.

Susan Allen Jackson, colored, testified Surratt was at his mother's house in Washington on the evening the President was assassinated, and identified the prisoner. She had never seen him before that time or since, till last week, when he was brought into Court.

James Singston, book keeper at St. Lawrence Hotel, Montreal, testified that a man named John Harrison, registered his name there April 6th, 1865, and left on the 12th for a New York train. The same party arrived on the 18th, and left almost immediately. Could not identify the prisoner as the man.

Mr. Bradley said the defense would admit Surratt was in Montreal on the 6th and 18th of April, 1865, and that he registered his name as John Harrison. They admitted the names were in Surratt's hand writing.

Mr. Pierrepont said the prosecution was then saved much evidence.

A coat was then exhibited and identified as one similar to that worn by Harrison.

The Court took recess until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

The German Schutzer corps commenced their annual "fete" to-day.

LOTTERY DEALER ARRESTED.

SANTA ANNA

is undoubtedly now in Mexico, for which country he left here five weeks ago. A translation is published from a Tampico paper of a pronunciamento, disavowing on the part of the garrison of Tampico the Juarez government, and recognizing Santa Anna as General-in-Chief of the Mexican armies and President ad interim of the Republic of Mexico. One paragraph of the pronunciamento protests against the action of Benito Juarez, by which he has mortgaged the States of Tamaulipas and San Luis Potosi to the government of the United States for fifty-five millions of dollars. The whole affair looks very sensational.

CHURCH STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

During a thunder storm this evening the Roman Catholic Church on Forty-second street, near Ninth avenue, was struck by lightning and so injured that it will have to be taken down.

SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS.

Between eleven and twelve o'clock this evening, the bodies of three dead infants were found in an ash barrel, opposite 109 Laurens street.

FROM MEXICO.

Order for the Trial of Maximilian, Miramon and Mejia—The Mexican Mission Tendered to General Steedman, &c.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A letter has been received here from Queratoro, in which it is said the General-in-Chief, on the 24th, ult., issued the necessary orders for the trial of Maximilian, Miramon and Mejia, in accordance with the law of January 24th, 1862. Maximilian requested permission to send a telegram to the Prussian Minister in Mexico, the purport of which is to request him and also Don Maria Riva Paliacio, the father of General Paliacio, and Licentiate Martinez De La Parre, to act as his defenders. The telegram was forwarded to the parties.

The Herald's special says: Secretary Seward tendered the Mexican mission to General Steedman, to proceed there at once. The General declined, owing to the condition of his private affairs.

The Herald's New Orleans special says: Minister Campbell declines stating what has transpired between the State Department and himself, but feels assured that the people will sustain him in the position he has taken when the records are published.

Congressional Nominations.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—The Third Congressional District Union Convention nominated Chancellor Hartson for Congress. There is great dissatisfaction with the ticket nominated by the Union State Convention. It is expected that there will be an Independent Union ticket placed in the field. The Democrats are sanguine of carrying the State at the fall election.

CONDENSED NEWS.

—The most violent rain storm ever known occurred in the vicinity of Philadelphia, commencing about mid-night of Sunday and continuing without intermission until half-past five o'clock Monday morning. About eight o'clock the Conocksink culvert gave way at the intersection of two streets upon which there is a great deal of travel. The Delaware and Schuylkill rivers rose very high. The wharves from Manayunk down were overflowed, as well as the tow-path of the canal. The water was four feet high in the mills at Manayunk. A freight train ran off the track at that place, owing to a large quantity of earth which was washed down upon the rails. All the trains were forced to stop at the point. A bridge washed away on the line of the Second and Third street passenger road prevented the running of cars. About thirty feet of high stone wall at the Insane Asylum was entirely demolished. A costly bridge on the Cohocksink Creek was entirely swept away. The cellars in entire streets in the lower section of the city were inundated, and the steam fire engines were busily engaged endeavoring to rid the premises of water. The rain played sad havoc with the crops. In many places corn, wheat and oats fields are covered with water. In the northeastern section of the city the water in a bar room was two feet deep.

—It is generally conceded, says a Washington special, that there will be a quorum of Congressmen present in July—the effect of the Attorney General's opinion.

—Hon. Isaac Newton, Commissioner of Agriculture, is dangerously ill.

—Typhoid fever cases, to the number of from twenty to fifty, it is reported, occur daily in Washington City.

—A railroad convention is in session in Louisville, Ky., in which some twenty roads are represented, the object in view being a reduction of rates and the establishment of quick time and accurate connections.

—Jacob Galloway has been nominated for Congress, by the Democrats in the Third (Kentucky) District, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. E. Hise.

Taking the Chances—Gift Enterprises—Bogus Petroleum Schemes—State Lotteries.

The amount of the barefaced public swindling perpetrated annually at the expense of the intelligent people of these United States, if correctly ascertained, must reach an appalling sum total. Especially since the close of the war, have confidence operators flourished all over the land. Many thousands of our brave soldiers had no sooner reached their homes, honorably discharged after years of hard and perilous service, with the poor pittance of pay allowed them in their pockets, than they were beset by sharpers at every turn. Oil-well schemes were plentiful as blackberries, each promising fortunes to those who would invest; and myriads of poor fellows, who escaped the dangers of the battle field and the horrors of captivity, were fleeced of their hard won greenbacks by specious operators in "undeveloped" oil territory—which is still, and will remain till Gabriel's trumpet sounds, undeveloped, because there is not and never was, any oil about it, except on the tongues of the eloquent confidence men who had it to sell.

And then there were "gift enterprises," with sounding names, and wearing the sacred mantel of charity, starting up in every town. Probably the meanest of all possible scoundrelism, was that which adopted schemes of this kind, appealing to the holiest impulses of human nature, as a means of filling the pockets of unprincipled adventurers. Millions of dollars were undoubtedly drawn from the people during the last year by confidence men engaged in scores of "charitable" gift enterprises—the advertisement of which was to be found in every newspaper of note throughout the land, and too often countenanced by the names of innocent gentlemen of respectability, who were used as stool-pigeons by the adroit and utterly conscienceless managers; but the gifts described in such gorgeous terms in the advertisements, were, of course, never seen by the victims.

And it is a singular evidence of the strong propensity of people to take even the most desperate chance, where there is an apparent possibility of great gains, that—in spite of the often repeated exposures of the utter worthlessness of these schemes, and the suppression of most of them by the authorities—there are still men to be found ready to risk their money in them. Only a month ago, a concern of this kind, pretending to be for the benefit of soldiers' orphans, was broken up by the police at Columbus, Ohio, after its managers had succeeded in pocketing, heaven only knows, how many thousands of dollars; and, within the present week, another gang of scoundrels, practicing the same game, was squelched in New York.

There is still another variety of confidence operators, well enough known to newspaper readers, but who find among the unsuspecting innocents of the rural districts an inexhaustible placer, which they do not fail to work with great industry. Mr. Snooks, calling himself the agent of some established lottery, writes to some rural gentleman, inclosing a lottery ticket, which, he says, has drawn two or three hundred or a thousand dollars. If rural gentleman will send Snooks ten dollars, the price of the ticket, he will send forthwith the amount of the prize—Snooks' only object being to secure rural gentleman's influence in selling other tickets, which may possibly not draw prizes, and this influence is specially stipulated for in the letter. Rural gentleman must, as soon as he receives the money, tell all his friends that he drew it on a ticket sold him by Mr. Snooks, the upright and gentlemanly agent, &c. If our rural friend swallows the bait and sends the ten dollars—which he frequently does—he is surprised, very naturally, after awhile to find that the enterprising Snooks forgets to return the amount of the prize; and after fruitless inquiry for that person through the postoffice, or otherwise, the victim makes up his mind that all lotteries are swindles. This conclusion is not wholly just; for regularly established lotteries do not do business in the manner adopted by our supposititious agent, and if our verdant friend had applied to a regular lottery office, he would have learned the nature of the swindle, and been fully informed of the precise chances which those concerns had to offer him.

As we have said, the propensity of many people to take chances in lotteries is almost unconquerable. The lottery business itself is a very old one. It is believed to be like some other specimens of finesse, of Italian origin. The first government lotteries were established by the Genoese, for the purpose of adding to the revenue of the Republic. The first lottery in England appears to have been drawn in 1569, and the profits were devoted to the repairs of harbors and public works.

In the early part of this century the State lottery had become an established institution in England, and in many of our American Commonwealths. On the Continent of Europe most of the governments have used lotteries up to quite a recent period, as a regular branch of the revenue system, and they still survive, in full vigor, in Rome and some of the German States, we believe. In England they were abolished in 1826; and in this country they are now prohibited by all the States except two—Kentucky and Missouri. In these States the business is consolidated under the joint management of France, Morris & Co., and Murray, Eddy & Co., whose central office is in Covington, Kentucky, corner of Fourth and Scott streets, where all drawings take place. These men, according to law, have deposited in the State Treasury ample security in State bonds, for the payment of all prizes, and for the honest and fair conduct of the business.

The theory upon which lotteries as State institutions were first adopted, was that the spirit of gambling—the disposition to deal in chances—was inherent in human nature; and that it was better that the public authorities should regulate that spirit, and make it contribute to the revenue of the State, guaranteeing fair dealing to the people, than to leave them to be swindled by irresponsible private adventurers. If the legal prohibition of lotteries, which now prevail in most of the States, cannot be better enforced than they have been of late against the gift enterprise and similar confidence swindles, sensible people will be apt to conclude that the old idea was not, after all, so far wrong; and that if lotteries are an evil, it would be more satisfactory to have them regulated and made amenable to the law of fair dealing than to put the people at the mercy of audacious operators, who sell tickets, but never draw prizes, and utterly defy the law as a dead letter.

At all events, as above stated, the only legally authorized lotteries in the United States are the Consolidated Kentucky and Missouri State Lotteries, above mentioned. The drawings of these concerns are probably as fair as anything of the kind can be, and are under the supervision of authorized Commissioners of the States.

We hear quite frequently of handsome prizes drawn by individuals in these lotteries. In one case, about two months ago, a gentleman of this city obtained the handsome little "pile" of $30,000 in exchange for a ten-dollar investment. Several smaller prizes, of substantial amount, are also talked about in private circles, and not long since a gentleman in New Orleans drew the very handsome amount of $50,000 in the Kentucky State Lottery. The prizes in the Kentucky concern range from $[illegible] to $125; and these are scattered from Maine to Texas, and from the Atlantic coast to San Francisco. These lotteries have been conducted for the past thirty years on the same basis; and the fact that they are still in operation is a pretty good evidence that the management is fair and honorable.—Cincinnati Enquirer, June 16th.

Important Bank Decision.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, June 18.—In the Circuit Court of the United States, Judge Giles presiding, in the case of Kennedy vs. Gibson, arising out of a recent failure of the Merchants' National Bank of Washington, involving the question of individual liability to the clause in the general national banking laws, the Court to-day rendered a lengthy opinion to the effect that no suit can be maintained under said clause until the Comptroller of Currency has audited the accounts of the insolvent institution, and ascertained after due notice to the creditors the amount of its liabilities.

ANTI-POPERY RIOT IN BIRMINGHAM — THE TOWN IN POSSESSION OF THE RIOTERS—TROOPS SUMMONED TO SUPPRESS THE DISTURBANCE.

LONDON, June 17.—2 P. M.—Information has reached this city, that a very formidable anti-popery riot prevails in Birmingham, to-day. Two streets have been taken possession of and completely sacked by the rioters, who are out in great force and present a very formidable appearance. A Roman Catholic Chapel has been attacked and threatened with demolition. The most intense excitement prevails, and further serious trouble is apprehended.

6 P. M.—At this hour the rioters are in full possession of the City of Birmingham, and all efforts to preserve the peace and order have proved futile. Large bodies of troops have been sent to the scene of disturbance with orders to put down the riot at all hazards and stop the further destruction of property.

The War in Crete—The Defeat of the Christians—Atrocities of the Turks.

ATHENS, June 15.—Advices from Crete represent that Omar Pacha met with a defeat from the Cretans, and that the expedition against Sphakia and Apocorona had failed. The Turkish losses were very heavy. Omar Pacha was unable to form a junction with the forces of Mehmed Pacha, who had been twice beaten in Apocorona, and had retreated to the entrenched camp of Omar Pacha. After a fresh defeat at Heradiliou, they burnt all the villages which were not defended and killed the inhabitants. The Consuls of the various powers have notified their governments of these atrocities. The Italian gunboat Prince Odean had saved several Christian families, and brought them to Piraeus. The Turkish steamer Isadhi, which chased the Greek blockade runner Arcade, is back at a Candian port in a damaged state, with several of her crew killed and wounded.

Death of Judge Lyons—Progress of Registration—The Ferry Boat Case.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

RICHMOND, June 18.—Judge W. H. Lyons, of Hustings Court, died this morning.

The registration in the city to-day shows the whites five ahead. At the County Court House twenty whites were registered and only one black.

FORTRESS MONROE, June 18.—Registration commenced yesterday at Norfolk and progresses gradually, without the slightest disturbance. A large number of colored men gathered around the polls. The result of the first day's labor in two wards is four hundred and forty voters, three hundred and seven being colored.

Colonel Cooley, President of the Registration Board, had an interview with the city authorities and prominent citizens, who expressed a desire to give him co-operation.

A reward of fifty dollars is offered for the apprehension of any one illegally registering his name.

The press is unanimous in calling upon every citizen to register himself, and in desiring from registering officers fairness and justice.

The case of Captain Childs, of the ferry boat running between Norfolk and Portsmouth, charged with ejecting a colored man from the white man's saloon, has been dismissed by the Mayor on the ground that the ferry company have the right to make laws and regulations for steamers and passengers.

Chief Justice Chase is expected in Norfolk to-night.

Freedmen Shipped as Liberia Emigrants and then Sold as Slaves—State Court in Conflict With the Military Government.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The Lincoln, N. C., Courier learns a from reliable source that freedmen are being shipped from various points of the Southern coast, ostensibly free emigrants to Liberia, but in reality to be disposed of as slaves to Cuban planters. A gentleman from near South Carolina, a prominent leader during the war, purchased, a few weeks ago, in Cuba, where he has a plantation, one of his former slaves.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer, held last week at Tarboro, N. C., adjourned without trying two negroes charged with murder, on account of the ruling of the presiding Judge in regard to the effect of Gen. Sickles' order, No. 32, in respect to the selection of jurors. Counsel for the prisoners asked the Court to instruct the Sheriff to summon all citizens who were taxpayers. This was declined, but the Sheriff was directed to summon from a jury list of taxpayers prepared by the proper officer. This being in conflict with Gen. Sickles' order, and the Court being consequently unable to proceed with the murder cases, it was decided to adjourn.

Meeting of the Senatorial Excursionists—Their Opinion of the Eastern Division of the Union Pacific Railway Through Kansas.

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—At a meeting held by Senator Wade's excursion party, at the Southern Hotel, before they left the city, the following committee was appointed to draft resolutions embodying the views of the party: Hon. Messrs. Chandler, Michigan; Howe, Wisconsin; Yates and Trumbull, Illinois; Cattell, New Jersey; John Covode, Pennsylvania; General Boynton, H. V. Parsons, General Stager, Ohio; and U. H. Painter, Pennsylvania. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

First, That we highly appreciate and applaud the wisdom, foresight, and courageous persistence of the patriotic men who inaugurated the grand enterprise of the Pacific Railway, and believing its feasibility and utility have been already clearly demonstrated, we congratulate them and the country upon the success which has crowned their efforts.

Second, That being fully satisfied of the many advantages attending the location of the road through Kansas, by reason of the inexhaustible fertility of the soil, salubrity of the climate, and industry and intelligence of its rapidly increasing population, we earnestly recommend it to the cordial support of the government and capitalists of the country.

Third, That after a personal survey of a part of the country through which the Eastern Division of the Pacific Railway is located, we confidently predict that the successful prosecution of that road will effect the best and most economical solution of the Indian question, by inviting a continuous line of settlements across the continent, and by affording at every station a base of operations for such military movements as may hereafter become necessary.

Fourth, That the railway to the Pacific, by the large reduction in the cost of transportation, will more than repay the Government of the United States for bonds loaned to aid its construction, and that the interests of the Government and of the American people require that this road should be completed to the Pacific Coast in the shortest practicable time.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

Planing Mill of C. M. Gearing & Co. Totally Destroyed—Six Dwellings in Ruins—Loss Estimated at $50,000—Partially Covered by Insurance.

Last evening between six and seven o'clock a fire originated in the large frame building occupied as a planing mill by C. M. Gearing & Co., at the corner of Butler and Allegheny streets, in the Ninth ward, this city, and was communicated to the extensive lumber yard on the east, and to several dwellings on the west. The fire broke out while the employees of the establishment were at supper, and is supposed to have originated in the engine house, which was connected with the main building.

PROPERTY CONSUMED.

The planing mill with all the machinery was totally destroyed, and a greater portion of the large stock of lumber the firm had on hand was entirely consumed. A three story dwelling house adjoining the mill on the west, occupied by Mrs. Welsh, and owned by Mr. McGregor was totally destroyed, and a two story frame in front and a brick in the rear, owned by Mr. Pugan, adjoining the McGregor house were partially destroyed, and two brick dwellings owned by Mr. Locke, were also partly consumed.

LOSS.

The machinery in the planing mill was valued at $12,000, and was totally destroyed. The total loss is estimated at fifty thousand dollars, and is partially if not entirely covered by insurance in city companies.

THE FIRE COMPANIES.

The steamers, both of this city and Allegheny, very promptly appeared on the ground, and labored hard and faithfully to stay the devouring element, and finally succeeded in getting complete control of it, but not until after the mill was completely destroyed. The Columbia Hook and Ladder Company of Allegheny, were prompt in "putting in an appearance" and did good service. The Eagle and Neptune each broke the couplings from two sections of the new hose, but the sections were very promptly replaced by others, so that there was but little detention caused to either company by the breaking.

THE CROWD.

The fire commenced about six o'clock, and raged until after eight, at which time the street for two squares, on either side, was one dense mass of men, women and children, of all ages, nations and tongues. Having arrived on the ground quite early, we had no difficulty in reaching the immediate vicinity of the conflagration, but found it quite a different matter to get away, and although the fire was completely checked if not actually quenched, the crowd was increasing by thousands. No serious accidents occurred, other than we have mentioned, nor was there any one injured so far as we could learn.

The Goldrich Homicide—Conclusion of the Coroner's Investigation—Verdict of the Jury.

The jury impannelled by Coroner Clawson to inquire into the circumstances attending the death of James Goldrich, reassembled at the Allegheny Mayor's office, Tuesday, and concluded the investigation. The following additional testimony was elicited:

F. A. Schmidt, sworn—Live in Erie; was in Allegheny on the night of the shooting; was in Kellar's store; was standing near the centre of the right hand side; first heard the breaking of glass; then heard the report, probably a few seconds afterwards, on the left hand side of the door, old Mr. Kellar was standing in the crowd; saw Victor Kellar going back towards the room, and afterwards return towards the door; saw deceased crawling about the floor; afterwards saw him dead; did not see him fall; when I saw him he was lying on his back, with his head towards the counter, on the right hand side of the door; when McFarland and deceased came in I was engaged in conversation with two young men; I suppose that between two and three minutes elapsed from the time I saw Kellar going towards the back room and when I noticed him returning; could not tell who was standing nearest to the door when the shot was fired. Did not see any one in the house have a pistol that night. Did not see the flash. Don't recollect of seeing McFarland. Don't know whether I saw any person in the room that evening wearing a white coat. There were six of us in our party—four young men and two young ladies. I did not know any of the persons but those from Erie. Staid at Kellar's all night. Saw young Kellar at the front door some time after the shooting. After deceased had been carried into the back room I went up stairs. When young Kellar first started back he did not appear to be excited, but walked quite rapidly.

Jacob Seifert, sworn—Live at Erie, Pa.; was in Allegheny on the night of the shooting, at Mr. Kellar's house; was sitting in the back room with a party of friends; heard the front door open and saw a man with a white coat come in the door and stepped on the left hand side; did not go into the store room, but when I heard the report of the pistol, I stepped to the door; saw the man who was shot crawling on the floor, near the end of the counter. All of the party went into the store but myself and a little girl; saw Victor Kellar previous to the shooting, but did not see him afterwards; I went up stairs about five minutes after the shooting.

Michael Ballentine, sworn—Live at Erie, Pennsylvania; was in Mr. Kellar's liquor store, on Ohio street, at the time of the shooting; we were in conversation in the liquor store when a young man came in and asked for liquor. [Witness here detailed the conversation between the parties previous to the shooting, as given by other witnesses.] Witness continued: When Mr. Kellar and Victor were trying to put the young man out of the door, a crowd rushed in; I then heard glass crash, saw the flash and heard the report of a pistol; it seemed to me the flash came from about the center of the door; don't know how many rushed in; the Kellars had hold of the man just a second or so before the firing; did not see deceased have hold of Mr. Kellar's hair; did not see Victor Kellar strike the man with a linen coat; was standing about ten feet from the door; don't think the Kellars succeeded in ejecting the man with a white coat; did not see any man with a pistol; did'nt notice young Kellar going towards the back part of the store; left this city for Erie on the Wednesday morning following.

John Schmidt, sworn—[This witness could not speak English, and gave his testimony through Mr. John Lemon, acting as interpreter.] Was in Mr. Kellar's house on the night of the shooting; was sitting on the counter in the store room, about the middle; saw the Kellars try to put a young man out of the store; heard the report but did not see the flash. At this time Victor Kellar was standing in the front door; saw him in the room three or four minutes afterwards; I staid in the store room until deceased was carried into the back room; did not notice Victor Kellar about at that time.

Lizzie Sharp, sworn—Live at Victor Kellar's house; was up stairs in the parlor; don't know what time it was; heard the report of the pistol and looked out of the window; saw the police have hold of a man with a white coat. The prisoner was standing about four feet below our house; heard the man with a white coat say, "Search me before you take me down." They went a few steps further and I heard the man say, "I didn't want to shoot him; I wanted to shoot the damned Dutchman;" he said that a number of times; he didn't mention the name of the man who was shot; Victor Kellar lives four doors from the corner; when I heard the man with a light coat make the remark he was standing with the police immediately under the window where I was looking out; there was no one with him but the police; there was a crowd at Dennis Kellar's door; saw Victor Kellar shortly after the shooting; he came into his own house; he said a man had been shot, and that the man who did it wanted to shoot him (Kellar) too; I am positive I heard the man with a white coat make the remark "I didn't want to shoot him, I wanted to shoot the damned Dutchman;" never saw Kellar have a pistol; he keeps a hardware store; I never noticed any pistols in the store.

Joseph Fisher was re-called, but nothing important was elicited.

Jos. Seiferth, Jr., sworn—Was at Kellar's house on the night of the shooting; my wife told me that there was a fuss at Kellar's and wanted me to go and see what it was; went round; and saw a man lying on the floor; saw a large crowd inside and outside; saw Victor Kellar after the shooting occurred; he was standing on the pavement in front of Dennis Kellar's; we went in to look at the man who was shot; don't know whether Victor Kellar carries a pistol or not; I gave him a revolver last Christmas or New Year's, but he told me a few weeks afterwards that he had sold it; don't think he keeps them for sale.

James Marshall, re-called.—Was on Kellar's side of the street when I heard the report; didn't see any person about with the exception of Mr. Fisher; saw the policeman turn McFarland around; saw the officer take him a few steps towards Victor Kellar's house; McFarland was sitting on a dry goods box; the officer had hold of him with one hand and was rapping for assistance with the other; heard McFarland say to the officer, "You couldn't arrest me if I didn't want to go, you d——d Dutchman;" was standing beside him; didn't hear him mention shooting or pistol; was in hearing distance all the time; could have heard the remark if he had made it; saw the officer take McFarland back to the door, and heard some one say to him: "Look what you've done." McFarland then kicked at the speaker. I then started for the doctor.

The testimony was concluded at this point, and the jury proceeded to deliberate upon a verdict. There seemed to be a considerable difference of opinion in regard to the testimony adduced, and after protracted deliberation the following verdict was agreed upon:

"That the deceased, James Goldrich, came to his death on the morning of the 11th inst., from the effects of a pistol shot fired from a weapon in the hands of Thomas McFarland or Victor G. Kellar, the jury being unable to decide which."

Deputy Collector of the Twenty-first District.

G. W. K. Minor, Esq., of Uniontown, Pa., has received the appointment of Deputy Collector for Fayette county, in the Twenty-first District, Pennsylvania, vice Col. E. G. Roddy, deceased. We are pleased to learn of Mr. Minor's success, and have no hesitancy in saying that he will make an excellent and efficient officer, as he is fully competent in every respect to discharge the duties of the office. Mr. M. has been in connection with the Republican party since its organization, and has ever been a faithful and zealous advocate of its principles, spending both his time and money in its interest, with scarcely a hope of reward, as his district is strongly democratic, and any favors conferred on him by the party are justly due.

Commencement Exercises of the Pittsburgh Female College—The Grand Musical Contest.

To-morrow evening, at the Pittsburgh Female College, will take place the annual musical contest between the scholars for the Thomas McKee and "Mellor" prizes. The former we have had the pleasure of examining. It is a rich and elegantly wrought massive medal, of the purest gold, cast from an elaborate die at the Philadelphia Mint. Aside from its pecuniary value, which is by no means insignificant, it is held to be one of the finest specimens of College medals ever prepared in America. On one side is a truthful and carefully wrought medallion of the author of the musical endowment, the lamented Thomas McKee, Esq. In neatly raised letters, tastefully encircling the medallion, is the inscription "Thomas McKee Prize for superior excellence in music." On the reverse are two elaborately formed laurel branches, forming a semi-circle and giving the appearance of a wreath, held by an ancient harp. In the space formed inside the laurel wreath will be inscribed the fortunate competitor's name. Above the central design are the words "Pittsburgh Female College" in bold letters, while beneath is the appropriate Latin motto "Laurus dignissimo detur"—"Let the laurels be given to the most worthy." The "Mellor" prize will be awarded to the best vocalist. It is a richly bound and valuable volume of sheet music, selected with much care, and embracing the sweetest current vocalizations in the musical world. The contest will be spirited and doubtless attended by a large intellectual and musical assemblage. The following compose the Committee on Award: Professor Tetedoux, Mr. and Mr. H. Kleber, and W. H. Everson, W. P. Marshall and Max Livingston, Esqs. The pupils of the College are all thoroughly proficient in instrumental and vocal music, inasmuch as our highly talented citizen, Professor Rohbock, occupies the preceptor's chair in that branch of the young ladies studies. Under his masterly tuition many of the finest and most finished of our parlor musicians have graduated, and hundreds of scholars who have pursued musical studies at the Pittsburgh Female College bear ample evidence of his skill and superiority as an instructor. The contest to-morrow evening will be public to all those who choose to attend. Cards of admission may be obtained from the President of the College, or at the principal music stores of the city.

On a Tour of Inspection.

The Grand Inquest,—"now inquiring in and for the body of Allegheny county,"—devoted yesterday to visiting public institutions, first calling at the House of Refuge. Here they were hospitably received and shown through the various departments of this creditable place of reform for youthful offenders. A band of music, composed of the lads of the Refuge, was in attendance and discoursed some excellent music. The general system of the Institution and its management were closely studied, and we presume the forthcoming presentment will embody the views of the Jurors on this well conducted place of moral imprisonment.

On arriving at the Hospital at Dixmont, the Jury were kindly welcomed by Dr. Reed and his modest bachelor Assistant, Dr. Gracy, who, after the usual courtesies, conducted the guests to the Dining Room, where dinner was served up in a style that would have done credit to a Delmonico, embracing all the delicacies of the season. The Doctor and his estimable, kind-hearted lady made one feel comfortable, and all did ample justice to the feast afforded.

Dinner over the Grand Jury were taken through the different wards of the building. They were astonished and delighted with the admirable system and air of cleanliness and comfort that characterized the institution. It has been our privilege to visit Institutions of a similar character in different parts of the country, and we do not remember of having ever examined a public institution, which will compare with Dixmont in point of general excellence and superiority of management. In one of the wards the visitors were regaled with some delightful music on the piano by an accomplished lady attendant, and a new sweet song was sung by one of the Grand Jury.

Previous to their departure the visitors held an informal meeting, at which resolutions of thanks were passed, expressing gratitude to Dr. Reed and his lady, for the kind courtesies and attentions received at their hands.

Weed Lock-Stitch Sewing Machines.

This machine has been too long before the public, and are now too well known in the family, and in every variety of sewing manufacture, to require a description here. The fact that we have always been able, without embarrassment, to warrant our machines to give better satisfaction than any other machine in the market, or money refunded, is the highest evidence we could possibly give of their absolute superiority. They will do a range and variety of work never before attempted upon a single machine, stitching from fine gauze to thick cloth and leather, and over-seams at full speed, without any change in feed, needle or tension. So perfectly adapted to all kinds of work on the Family Machine, tailoring, cloaks, shoe fitting, saddle making, dress making and family sewing, they will sew the goods without washing, and when the goods are washed after sewing, will not pucker or draw. Now such is the capacity of this Machine. Nay, the fact is out, and no arts of the trade can disguise it.

Assault and Battery.

A hearing took place at the office of Alderman Lindsey, yesterday, in the case of J. O'Neil vs Wm. Aiken, for assault and battery on the wife of O'Neil. The facts of the case so far as we could learn, are as follows: Aiken leases a house in the Fifth ward, and sub-leases a part of it to O'Neil, who has a number of children, and Aiken has a cellar in which he kept his butter, eggs, meat, etc. Aiken missed a portion of his stores, and some one informed Mrs. O'Neil that he, Aiken, charged her children with stealing the same, whereupon Mrs. O'Neil went immediately to Aiken to make inquiry about the matter, and compel him to retract if he had said so. Aiken ordered her to leave the house which she refused to do, whereupon he laid hold of her and put her out. Mrs. O'Neil alleges that he struck and kicked her after she was out of the house. Aiken was held in five hundred dollar for his appearance at Court, and Mrs. O'Neil in the sum of two hundred, to appear and prosecute the case.

Fatal Accident.

On Sunday morning last about eleven o'clock a most lamentable and distressing accident occurred in Soho, at the corner of Madison and Forbes street, which resulted in the death of a little child four years of age, daughter of a German family named Feitman. The mother was preparing dinner at the cooking stove, which was set up on bricks, and upon which was a large pot of boiling soup, and the child was sitting near the stove. The mother in working about the stove in some way knocked it over, and it fell upon the child as did also the pot of boiling soup, burning, bruising and scalding it in a dreadful manner. One eye was entirely burned out, its head badly bruised, and scalded all over. The unfortunate little creature lingered until Monday evening at 6 o'clock, when death released it from its misery.

X. L. All.

No one of the Ice Chests in the market stands deservedly so high as the X. L. All. It is scarcely possible to obtain them from the manufacturer as fast as wanted. They preserve the ice well and are provided with a perforated stone butter crock, water cooler, &c., and are sold before they arrive. The Patent Ice Pick and Fly Brush with Fan combined, are the latest of the useful devices. Israelites at War.

Yesterday morning Jacob Steiner, made information before Alderman Donaldson, against Michael Simons, charging him with assault and battery, whereupon Michael preferred a charge of surety of the peace against Jacob, before the same officer. The parties are decendants of Abraham, and are employed in Riley's clothing house on Liberty street, as salesmen. It appears that they had been joking with each other for several days, and yesterday morning carried the joke too far, as it ended in a fight. Warrants were issued and the parties arrested, when the matter was compromised by each paying his own costs.

He has now resumed his profession and we cheerfully commend him to the attention of our readers, desirous of procuring the services of a well read, industrious, enterprising, and trustworthy attorney.

A Prisoner Attempts to Escape Through a Car Window.—Last evening, as the emigrant train on the Pennsylvania Railroad was leaving Homewood station, where it had stopped for the purpose of taking on a pic-nic party, a prisoner from Johnstown, Pa., in charge of an officer who is conducting him to Cincinnati to answer a charge of horse stealing, attempted to make his escape by jumping through the car window while the train was in motion, notwithstanding he was heavily ironed. The train was checked and the prisoner recaptured.

The driver had his shoulder bruised slightly, and one of his hands was injured.

New Opera House.—This popular place of amusement will re-open on Saturday night, under the auspices of Joe Sefton, W. H. Leake, Anna Eberle and Anna Waite. This is a strong firm, and we trust, under their managerial ability the Opera House may be again made a first class temple of the drama. Mr. John Burke, formerly one of the popular managers of the Academy of Music, has been selected as Treasurer and general business agent. The programme for Saturday night will be "Child Stealing" and "Dick Turpin."

LOTS FOR SALE IN TARENTUM, AND NEAR IT.—Tarentum is situated on the west bank of the Allegheny river, 21 miles above the City of Pittsburgh. The lots are generally in size 50 feet front and 150 deep, from street to alley; and also of 2 to 8 acres near the Borough and the Soda Works, well adapted for country residences, being rich soil, well watered, and commanding a beautiful and extensive view of the river and surrounding country. Persons desirous of starting manufacturing establishments, such as rolling mills, woolen factories, paper mills, &c., would find the location, near the river or railroad, admirably suited for such purposes. Capitalists will be encouraged to purchase by moderate prices and easy terms, as it is intended that the superior advantages of the place—as to abundant supply of water, coal, limestone, &c., and railroad and river facilities—shall be liberally offered for manufacturing purposes generally.
Trains on the Western Pennsylvania Railroad pass to and from Tarentum, east and west, several times daily. For a map of survey of the lots apply to Hon. H. M. BRACKENRIDGE, at his residence near the Soda Works, or J. N. PURVIANCE, Tarentum.

WEDNESDAY JUNE 19, 1867.

LEGISLATIVE CORRUPTION.

The untoward course of events at the State Capital, particularly during the last few years, has created a very general feeling of distrust as to the intelligence and honesty of many members of the Legislature. She State has been absolutely despoiled. No public property is left that could be converted to private use. Laws have been notoriously passed, not to promote the welfare of the Commonwealth, but to subserve the greed of members of the two Houses, and the outside cormorants with whom they were associated. Bills of the utmost equity, and the most pressing importance, have been often defeated, because members found pecuniary advantage in opposing them. We are aware it is said these things cannot be proved. By way of rejoinder, it is only needful to say, that however difficult, in the present condition of the laws, it may be to make legal proof sufficient to convict the guilty, a moral consciousness of the justice of these incriminations is felt by every citizen of the State who is at all conversant with Legislative proceedings. This consciousness is one of the highest forms of proof to those who feel it. No amount of sophistry, special pleading, or abuse, avails against it. The basis of it is circumstantial evidence. A hundred minute and almost impalpable things, considered separately and apart, combine to force a conclusion which is irresistible.

Of late many plans have been proposed for remedying this evil. Among these is this—that special plans be taken to send better men to the Assembly. Not but some of the most desirable sort get there every year, but that there is need of increasing their number, and correspondingly diminishing the other kind. Citizens who have never taken an active part in political management are apt to think this hard to do. In this conjecture they are mistaken. It is always easy for the people of any county or district to have suitable men nominated for office, provided they set about it in the right way and with a determination not to be baffled.

In each county or district, ordinarily, comparatively a few individuals are potential in the control and direction of either political party. It may safely be assumed that the denser the population, the fewer relatively take an essential share in party arrangement. This happens in obedience to a law that pervades all civilized communities. When many things are to be done, they are best accomplished by a division of labor. In all departments of business this principle is recognized and respected, because of its undeniable conveniences. In busy populations this rule is allowed to run into political matters. Most men have their hands and heads full of their private concerns, and let those who will take possession of the local political machinery and run it as they please. This is one of the main reasons why this machinery is frequently put to selfish and corrupt uses.

The bulk of the members of a party in any locality have two means of redress within their reach. If either of them alone is insufficient, the two applied consecutively will pretty certainly prevail

The first of these means consists in each citizen doing his duty as such, and as a member of the party with which he elects to act. No citizen has a right to stay away from the primary meetings or to go and blindly ratify whatever leaders may propose, and then when the result proves unsatisfactory, turn away and grumble. Each citizen is bound to resist at the start all improper candidates and instrumentalities. It is his duty to demand the nomination of competent and honest men for all places of honor and trust. There are such men in every community. Bankers, mechanics, traders and manufacturers, have little difficulty in finding men whose intelligence is of the honest order, and whose probity is proof against all temptations. Here and there, indeed, a rascal turns up, and is forced to run the country or submit to be caged in the penitentiary. But these are exceptional instances. There is a vast amount of sterling uprightness in the world. Nothing is stronger, after all, than man's faith in man. If this was not so, society would disintegrate and cease to exist. Commerce everywhere proclaims that there are plenty of men fit to be trusted. It finds suitable agents on all sides. Misanthropes and hypocondrias may prate as they will about modern degeneracy; but there are a hundred reliable men, at least, for each rascal. There honest and capable men can be had for public as easily as for private service; and they will no more steal or defraud at Harrisburg than at home, in the shop, in the bank, on the farm, in the factory, or in the store.

Men of integrity and sense have weight and influence wherever they may be. Get them in position and they can be counted on to a certainty. Scamps know them by instinct and keep away from them. Temptations are not laid in their way; and even if temptations should be presented, they would be powerless. How is it that such men can be found for partners, clerks, foremen, superintendents, cashiers, and what not, and cannot be had to go to Harrisburg? The very statement shows there is a fallacy lurking in it. Party leaders can be made to nominate good men for all public places, and there are enough such men willing to be nominated under proper circumstances. Sometimes this would interfere with the plans and ambitions of cliques, that wish to constitute their sets close corporations. But it is very useful occasionally to learn cliques that the masses constitute a power above them.

There is another instrumentality the members of a party always have at command, when other agencies fail to induce party leaders to nominate suitable candidates—and that is what is commonly called bolting. This is a harsh expedient, in parties analagous to rebellion in government, and should be resorted to only in extreme cases, when all other means of redress have failed. But it is a legitimate agency. A bad man can have no valid claims to support. If he has no merit in himself, he cannot be invested therewith by a party caucus. An attempt by a caucus to foist such an one upon the people is an insult and an outrage, deserving of prompt and decided rebuke.

Let us illustrate. Certain Republican members of the last Legislature were nominated and elected under the expectation that they would sustain a genuine Free Railroad Law. They did no such thing; but violated either expressed or implied pledges. Some of these men want to go to the Legislature again, and may perhaps manage to be re-nominated. If any of them shall succeed in worming themselves on the ticket, there is but one way for the friends of Freedom in Railroad Building to take with them, and that is, to vote square against them.

All the Republican members who voted against Senator BIGHAM's bill are not in this boat. Some of them kept their pledges, if they made any, and fairly represented the views of their constituents. Our suggestions do not apply to them. Neither do the foregoing remarks apply to any member of the Allegheny delegation. The case we have adduced illustrates a principle, and for that object only we brought it forward.

—The mysterious mission of the United States steamer Gettysburg to the West Indies, has resulted in a simple treaty of amity, commerce, &c., with the Dominican Republic. It is nothing more or less than the stereotyped formality which we have gone through with every State, big and little, in the entire circle of American powers.

—There was a mob execution in Wyandotte last Wednesday night, at midnight. Two negro men, named Webster and Van Buren, accused of murdering McMarrow, were taken out by a party of about one hundred men, and an end put to all their earthly troubles. The unfortunate fellows plead for mercy, but they begged in vain. A rope was put around Webster's neck, but it broke, and he was dispatched with the revolver. Van Buren attempted to run, and was shot, two balls taking fatal effect.

—One of the interesting buildings in the great gardens of the Exposition contains a collection of models illustrative of the series of works on the much-talked of Suez Canal, with stuffed specimens of various creeping, crawling and flying things now existing in the vicinity, fossils and curious exhumations of all sorts. It is now fifteen years since the French began to seriously agitate this project, although they have been at work not quite eight, with a capital of $40,000,000. It is at present about one-third finished; and one-half the length is excavated, and that only a little more than a third of its future width, while the depth, which is to be twenty-six feet, now averages only seven; but all the preliminary works of surveys, plans, estimates, &c., are of course complete.

—In a liquor saloon in the Nineteenth ward, New York, on Thursday evening, six large tom cats were secured, and a number of invited "sportsmen" assembled at the saloon to witness an encounter. The first two cats were tied firmly together by the caudal extremities, and then thrown over a stout line tied to two upright posts in the yard in the rear of the saloon, and immediately a fierce contest was commenced, in which the quadrupeds scratched and bit at each other shockingly, meanwhile uttering the most appalling cries, which mingled hideously with the jeers and oaths of the bystanders. After a contest of ten minutes' duration, one of the felines died, while the other hung motionless by its side. They were then taken from the cord and thrown into a vault. Four other cats were then attached to the line, and the scene was re-enacted to the evident delight of the observers, who offered small bets on their favorite cats.

The Lingo of Wall Street.

A Baltimore correspondent asks an explanation of the terms used in quoting the rates for loans of gold. We will try to give it, although we wish it understood that these technical phrases are employed chiefly for the benefit of the initiated, who readily comprehend them, and are not designed for miscellaneous readers who are less interested in the question. In explaining, we will suppose A has gold on hand, kept for a rise or future use, and wants to borrow currency upon it to make it available as capital for present payment, without losing his title to it. He can deposit the gold with a bank or other capitalist, and borrow money on it to about its market value, at, say five per cent. per annum interest. But if he finds that B has currency to spare and wants the money to use, he makes an even transaction. That is, A lends B his money for its equivalent in paper money at the market rate of the day, on the promise of B to return the gold for the paper again upon demand, neither party to pay any interest. This even exchange is called "flat." It makes no difference whether the owner of the paper or the gold has a right to call for a settlement, if each party has the use of the other's money until the call is made, the rate in street parlance is flat.

If there is more gold offering than paper, the owner of the gold may have to pay partial interest for the use of the currency, and this is called a rate "for carrying"—that is, A borrows the currency of B, giving the latter the use of his gold, and agreeing to pay him, besides, say two, three, or four per cent. per annum interest when the transaction is closed. Of course the rate for carrying, even at the highest, must be less than full rates for a call loan, because the owner of the gold can always borrow upon it at that anywhere in the street.

It sometimes happens that gold is scarce and wanted. Then the borrower pays for its use, and this is called a "borrowing" rate, as distinguished from the "carrying" rate. This is always reckoned by the day. A few weeks ago we were quoting from 1-32 to 3-16 as the borrowing rate. This means that B lets A have his currency and pays him this fraction of one per cent. a day for its use. The flat is the even balance between a rate to borrow and a rate to carry. If there is a borrowing rate the owner of the gold receives so much per day for its use, and has the currency besides. If there is a carrying rate, the owner of the currency receives so much per annum for the use of his paper money, and has the use of the gold besides. If the rate is flat, each has the use of the other's money, and neither pays anything. We think this is intelligible to the simplest understanding. We quote daily the opening, highest, lowest and closing rates, and these terms explain themselves. The term "highest flat" means that the highest price for the use of gold during the day was an even exchange with currency."

Municipal Enterprise in Cincinnati.

The Cincinnati Commercial accuses the present government of that city of profligate expenditure of the public money. The bonded debt of the city has reached the sum of $3,279,000, and the city tax this year is more than two per cent. Adding the county and State taxes, the people of Cincinnati pay more than three per cent., and the valuation of property is constantly rising. Behind this loom up the national taxes.

Complaint is made that the City Council takes no account of these serious facts. The Gilbert avenue project, which it has adopted, involves an expense of $200,000. McLean avenue will cost at least as much more. The line of the latter, says the Commercial, is "not unfrequently covered by the Ohio River. When the water is up we may pass along that avenue in gondolas, and we anticipate a proposition to send a committee of the City Council to Venice to make a study of municipal water craft."

Mr. Eggleston's "boulevard" will probably cost $1,000,000. The new sewerage system, work house, and commercial hospital, will cost about $500,000 each. The new gas works may cost anywhere from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The renovation of the "Garden of Eden," the Commercial thinks, may be safely debited with an additional outlay of $2,000,000. What the projected water works would cost it is impossible to conjecture.

—On last Sunday, as some children were playing in the stable of Mr. Albert G. Johnson, at Palmyra, Missouri, his little grandson, about four years old, was shot and instantly killed. An orphan boy, aged about thirteen years, whom Mr. Johnson was raising, had by some means got possession of a revolver, and threatened to shoot the little fellow if he entered the stable, being at the time mounted on the back of a stallion. On the child entering the stable the pistol was fired, the ball penetrating entirely through his head. The boy ran away, but was taken some three miles off, with the pistol still in his hand. He is now lodged in our county jail.

AN OLD FRIEND.

For many years the Press of the country has chronicled the beneficial effects of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Editors, authors, physicians, merchants, officers of the army and navy, chemists counselors, ministers of the gospel; in short, a great cloud of witnesses of every profession, trade and calling, have testified to its efficacy as a tonic and regulating medicine. The names and statements of these witnesses have been published in the public prints. Many of them are well known to the whole public. Their testimony has never been challenged or impugned. This has been tried and pronounced, on the authority of those whose lives and health it has preserved, a pure, harmless and eminently salutary preparation. Attempts have been made to rival it. They have failed. There is nothing equal to the enjoyment experienced by the afflicted when using this valuable specific. Its mild tone, its sure and vigorous action upon a disordered stomach, and the cleansing of the entire human body, recommend it to the whole community as a RELIABLE FRIEND.

PINUS CANADENSIS.

A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more northern parts of the New England States, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle States, and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. Swett, of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which is one of rare value in all debilitated states of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to regain their lost tone and energy. It will be found well adapted to all those diseases, where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is likewise well suited to chronic coughs, and an infallible specific for old and debilitated cases of asthma. Many persons who at first only took a bottle of this medicine, to try, afterwards came back and got a dozen, or half dozen, which effected radical cures of diseases of the bladder and kidney of years standing.

Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by it. Notice the certificate of Asa Goodnue, published some time ago.

The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine, says: "it is prescribed in leucorrhœa, gleet, and other diseases of the urinary passages; in piles and chronic inflammation or ulceration of the bowels, in chronic catarrhal affections, and in various forms of rheumatism." It is exceedingly valuable in all gravelly affections, bloody urine, and where there is red and white sediment. It can be taken without interruption to one's usual avocations; and instead of sickening, produces a bracing, healthy power of endurance and vigor. Price $1 per bottle; six for $5. Ask for POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND. For sale by the dozen or single bottle, at DR. KEYSER'S Great Medicine store, 140 Wood street. ap20

The Pittsburgh Gazette

THE COURTS.

Court of Quarter Sessions.

This Court met Tuesday at ten o'clock, Hon. Thomas Mellon on the bench, Col. L. B. Duff, District Attorney.

THE BIRMINGHAM MEAT CASE.

The case of Jacob Byer, butcher, of Birmingham, indicted for the larceny of a quantity of beef, the property of Frederick Toyful, also a Birmingham butcher, was proceeded with. There was a great deal of testimony offered on both sides, and by the time the case got to the jury it was hard to conjecture what the verdict might be. The Courts hold that good character can be taken into consideration in doubtful cases. This is equivalent to saying that good character amounts to nothing. For in a clear case of guilt, a previous spotless character will not save a defendant, while in a doubtful case, a jury is bound to give the prisoner the benefit of the uncertainty, independent of the fact of character. The evidence in the case, while it differed very essentially on the question of the identity of the meat stolen, did not have the appearance of being strained, or of being wilfully false. A butcher in swearing to meat of his own butchering, is guided as a shoemaker, or a tailor, or other tradesman, in identifying goods of their own manufacture. They swear positively, without any reservation, to a pair of boots, a coat, or other article, and when asked how they do so, their explanation is not, apparently, very satisfactory, and attorneys are quick to take advantage of what they assume to be unreliable identification. If copies of each of the daily newspapers of the city were torn into pieces, and the pieces mixed together, we risk nothing in the assertion that any city printer would be able to assort the pieces belonging to each particular paper and swear to their identity. So, in this meat case, we believe it to have been possible for the prosecutor to identify his "rib roast" which he alleged was taken from his stall and found in the possession of the defendant; and we also believe there was nothing objectionable in the testimony of the person who butchered the beef and sold a "side" to the prosecutor, that the "roast" was a portion of that "side." The fact was established that the defendant bore such a character for honesty in the community where he lived as would preclude the idea of his committing a larceny. Either this testimony, or the "reasonable doubt" of guilt on the question of identification, settled the matter, the jury finding a verdict of not guilty.

STEAMBOAT ASSAULT AND BATTERY CASE.

Thomas Hill, a colored man, who had been employed as fireman on the steamer "Bengal," appeared as prosecutor of Patrick McCollister, mate of the steamer "Coal City," for assault and battery, swearing that on the 29th of April he was attacked by him on a steamboat at the wharf, struck by him a violent blow on the head and then pushed into the river. The injury he received was very severe. It did not appear from what cause the defendant resorted to this violence, nor was this necessary to be elicited, inasmuch as the blow and pushing could not be justified under the law. The testimony offered in defense was of a negative character, several testifying that they were about at the time, but did not see any blows struck. One said he thought the "niggers" were drunk, at least "they had a bottle." Some evidence was offered that the prosecutor and his witness had made contradictory statements as to the time the striking took place. One witness saw the prosecutor attacked and get a blow over the head, not from defendant, and saw a lump of coal thrown at him, but could not say whether it hit him. The assault and battery by McCollister was alleged to have occurred on the "Jim Reese," and a witness testified that he saw some "coal heavers" beat the prosecutor on the "Wild Cat," hit him twice over the head with a club, and also strike him with lumps of coal. The defendant was not placed by witnesses for the defense with the party who were assaulting the prosecutor on the "Wild Cat," and it seems the prosecutor was the victim of most brutal treatment. As to what occurred on the "Jim Reese," the prosecutor was fully coroborated by one witness.

J. R. Brown, Esq., counsel for the prosecution, thought the defense a "hatched up story," which should not have any weight with the jury. The alleged beating of the prosecutor on the "Wild Cat," however, had nothing to do with the violence he received at the hands of the defendant on the "Jim Reese."

The jury found a verdict of guilty. Sentence was deferred until Saturday, the defendant being notified that unless he made it appear pretty clearly he had nothing to do with the violence inflicted on the prosecutor, as testified for the defense, in his sentence the Court would take that into consideration.

AN EJECTMENT CASE.

William Ward, Sr., and William Ward, Jr., of the Sixth Ward, and John Barry, constable, indicted for forcible entry and detainer, on oath of Oliver E. Cornelius, were placed on trial. Prosecutor testified that on the first of April last he was in peaceful possession of the house, No. 26 Martin street, Allegheny. On that day the defendants came there, and the elder Mr. Ward demanded the key; it was refused; then, by direction of his father, the younger Ward burst open the back door, which had been locked. Prosecutor went immediately and made information before a magistrate. When he returned the furniture had been taken out of the house and placed in a heap on the sidewalk. On cross-examination prosecutor stated he refused to give up the key when it was demanded, for the reason that he had rented the house and proposed to remain in it. The Wards removed the furniture, whilst Barry, the other defendant, remained on the sidewalk to "keep the peace." For the defense, D. D. Bruce, Esq., offered to show that the house was leased to prosecutor for one year, to expire April 1st, 1867, it being stipulated in the lease or agreement that possession was to be given up at that time, and in addition to show that formal notice had been given to prosecutor to quit the premises. Judge Mellon said, admitting all to be true that had been offered, it did not amount to a defense. In prosecutions of this kind, the Court had held that the question of title could not be inquired into. Where a party was in possession, and refused to relinquish it, this would not justify forcible entry.

Mr. Bruce said the allegata and probata in the case did not agree. It was averred in the indictment that the prosecutor had a lease of the premises from April last until April next, and this being a material allegation, the Commonwealth had not made out their case, not having given any evidence of the lease. Part of the sentence, on a conviction for forcible entry and detainer, was restitution of the premises forcibly taken possession of.

Judge Mellon said the matter of restitution had not been suggested in the case, the testimony being confined to the forcible entry, and the defence could not complain. Had the evidence extended to the nature of the lease of the prosecutor, the question raised would not interfere with the conviction for forcible entry. His Honor, in charging the jury, said they must remember the Commonwealth was concerned, and that the preservation of the public peace was the important consideration. If a party kept possession of premises for a longer time than his lease stipulated, he would be in unlawful possession, and could be proceeded against under the law for forcible detainer, the same as, in this case, against a party for forcible entry.

The jury found the Wards guilty, and acquitted John Barry, the constable.

A DRUGGIST INDICTED.

E. J. Dobbins, druggist, of the Sixth ward, plead guilty to three indictments for selling liquor without license. Defendant purchased from Mr. Mickelburg the drug store at No. 245 Pennsylvania Avenue, and it seemed was in ignorance of the necessity for a transfer of the license to sell liquor. He therefore suffered for his ignorance to the extent of ten dollars and the costs on each indictment.

A COLORED CASE—JEALOUS HUSBAND.

Mary Sewell, colored, residing in the Seventh ward, appeared as prosecutrix against Joseph Sewell, also colored, for assault and battery, committed in February and April, by kicking her out of the house and striking her with a club. Being only indicted for the offense in April, the proof was confined to that occasion, although the wife alleged seven separate and distinct assaults and batteries. On the 3d day of April he struck her with a "great big club," forced her into the street, and tried to throw her under a street car. Prosecutrix said they had been married about two years, that she had left her husband two or three times, but he would come after her, persuade her to go back to him, and she would remain about a week when he would "commence on her again." Jealousy seemed to be the trouble, and on one occasion when a strange man remained in the house all night, sitting on a chair, the husband, who came home at five o'clock in the morning, raised a rumpus, chased the man away, and shot after him. She protested that the man came there drunk, that she had never seen him before, and that he positively remained in the chair all night, that she did not see him get up from it. Prosecutrix admitted she "drank a little sometimes."

The Court thought there might have been fallacious circumstances in the case. The man sitting on the chair was certainly a circumstance, but it did not justify the defendant in maltreating his wife. The jury found a verdict of guilty, and the prisoner was sentenced to pay a fine of five dollars and costs.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL HEARD.

There being no other case ready for trial before a jury, the motion for a new trial in the case of C. Buckley, convicted of larceny, was argued by A. G. Cochran, Esq. The reasons assigned were that the verdict was not according to law, and the evidence not of a character to warrant the jury in convicting. The facts of the case were about these: The prosecutor in passing along Market street was induced to go into defendant's store, and after considerable negotiation agreed to take a hat, paying for it at the time two dollars. The prosecutor did not get the hat he agreed to purchase, another being substituted, which he refused to take, and both hats were retained by defendant. The jury convicted of the larceny of the hat. Mr. Cochran thought the defendant's offense could not be larceny, might be false pretense, or the proper remedy against him in a civil action. The parties, in other words, were to be regarded in the light of vendee and vendor, and the transaction viewed as a contract. To sustain the conviction the jury must have believed it was the intention of the defendant to take the hat and fraudulently appropriate it to his own use, which intention could not be inferred from the testimony in the case. Judge Mellon said he would pass upon the motion this morning at ten o'clock, to which time Court adjourned.

Alleged Attempt.

On the information of William Atkinson, Alderman Donaldson yesterday held to bail Charles English, a resident of Allegheny city, to answer a charge of attempting to pick the prosecutor's pocket, while riding in a car of the Citizens' Passenger Railway. The defendant avowed his innocence, and said that in the crowded state of the car, in endeavoring to put his hand into his own pocket, put it into that of Mr. Atkinson. On the other hand, Mr. Atkinson is strong in the conviction that there was no mistake about it, and that it was the intention of English to steal. His conviction in the matter will not, we judge, be of any avail, unless he demonstrates that it rests on a good basis in the way of circumstances attending the occurrence.

AN INTERESTING LETTER is published in the Medico-Chirurgical Review, on the subject of the Extract of Sarsaparilla in certain affections, by Benjamin Travers, F. R. S., &c. Speaking of those diseases, and diseases arising from the excess of mercury he states that no remedy is equal to the Extract of Sarsaparilla; its power is extraordinary, more so than any other drug I am acquainted with. It is, in the strictest sense, a tonic with this invaluable attribute, that it is applicable to a state of the system so sunken, and yet so irritable as renders other substances of the tonic class unavailable or injurious.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY, June 18, 1867.

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 137¼; Eighty-one bonds, 113; Five Twenties, 1862, 110¼; Five Twenties, 1864, 106¾; Five Twenties, 1865, 107¼; 1865 Consols, 109¾; Seven Thirties, 106¼@105¾; Ten Forties, 100¼; Michigan Southern Railroad, 69¼; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 77¾; Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago, 97¾; Erie, 60¼; Chicago and Northwestern, 35¾; Chicago and Northwestern preferred 58¾; New York Central, 102¾; Reading, 107¾; Chicago and Rock Island, 91¾; Western Union, 44¾; Gregory, 5,95; Corydon, 1,50; Quartz Hill, 1,50; Smith & Paramerlee, 4,20.

Gold opened at 137¾, declined to 137¼, advanced to 138, and closed apparently strong at 137¾. The transactions are light, and though the market is firm, there is more disposition to sell than to buy for higher prices. The advance is the result of manipulations by foreign banking houses, and must be of immense benefit to them. The modus operandi is very simple, and takes nothing but good credit among the business community of New York. Sixty-day bills are sold either for gold or currency, and Five-Twenty bonds shipped as collaterals before the majority of the bills, sight bills, or other valuables commanding coin, are sent, and thus the drafts covered; or, if the Bond market offers advantages in the meantime, a profit may be made on the bonds. On the other hand, six per cent. gold interest will accrue to the shipper. It is thus evident what immense profit there must be, since it is reasonable to suppose that sixty days hence Gold will be at least from 8 to 10 per cent. lower than it is now. In the ordinary course of business the exchange dealer runs but little risk, and even should gold temporarily advance much higher, his disadvantages are but light. The bond market has come to a halt, as people hesitate a moment to purchase securities at 9 and 10 per cent. above par when money is scarce for any legitimate business purpose, and when a further contraction of currency must cause a shrinkage of all values, even Government securities.

The stock market is very buoyant, but there is not much doing outside of the regular Wall street houses. Local stocks are dull and are offered daily in large quantities. Mining shares are improving.

—It is again out from Washington that the Secretary of the Treasury expresses entire confidence in his ability to meet all demands on the Treasury without increasing the public debt. This announcement, in connection with the large disbursements from the Treasury, favors the general feeling of continued ease in the money market.

—On Saturday the interest on the June United States Seven Thirties matured, but the payments were not as heavy as usual. It being the last day of the week, and the weather very warm, may have interfered to check the rush usual on such occasions. The demand will probably be larger to-day and to-morrow.

—The ease in the English money market, and the very low rate of 2½ per cent. interest at the Bank, it is anticipated will create a demand abroad for our Government loans, and under the feeling holders are firm. One thing seems very sure, there will be no bonds returned to this market for sale while the Bank of England is a legal tender of money at 2½ per cent. per annum. The firmness of cotton abroad, and the good crop prospects at home, with free disbursements from the Treasury, all favor the continuation of an easy money market and buoyant prices of stocks.

—A Washington dispatch to the New York Tribune, under date of June 16th, has the following interesting items, in regard to the National Banks:

The securities held by the Treasurer of the United States, in trust for the National Banks, reported yesterday, are as follows: For circulating notes, $340 586,800; for deposits of public moneys, $38,983 950. Total, $379 590,4[illegible]5. During the week ending yesterday, there has been received at the Treasury from the Printing Bureau, $495,438 in fractional currency. During the same period there has been forwarded to the Assistant Treasurer of New York $100 000, to the United States Depository at Pittsburgh $40 000, and to the National Banks $109 303 65. The amount of National bank currency issued during the week was $75,650, making the total amount to date $303,021,456. From this there is to be deducted the currency returned, including worn out notes, amounting to $4,861,-627, leaving in actual circulation at this date $298,159,829. The amount of fractional currency redeemed and destroyed at the Treasury Department during the week was $384,6[illegible]0. The receipts from Internal Revenue yesterday were $748,350, and for the week, $4,169,549. The total amount for the fiscal year to date is $256,2[illegible]1 336. The amount of gold in the Treasury of the United States yesterday was $103,-000 000, of which sum $18,[illegible]9,000 has been deposited by parties who hold gold certificates, while $85,000 000 belong to the Government. The Louisiana National Bank of New Orleans has, on its own application been discontinued as a depository of public money and a financial agent of the United States.

—The Chicago Tribune of Monday, reports money matters in that city as follows:

The mercantile trade of the city shows increased activity, and the business of the week exhibits a material addition in volume. This is more noticeable in the way of dry goods and clothing, but in other branches the improvement was light. For seasonable goods the demand is quite active, but generally speaking the inquiry for all kinds of merchandise is only one of bare consumption. The crop prospects continue to be extremely encouraging, and we now hear of no croakings. New wheat in small quantities, has made its appearance in the Cincinnati market, and in the course of two weeks we may look for samples from the Southern part of this State. Corn is progressing finely, as are also oats, rye and barley. The fruit crop promises to be one of great abundance. Notwithstanding that everything looks so favorable for the fall trade, our merchants are not very sanguine, and business is being conducted in such a manner that no losses will be entailed should the anticipations of the country fail to be realized.

Business at the banks was rather dull to-day though there was a fairly active demand for [illegible]. In other respects there was nothing [illegible] money market and our markets of [illegible] fewer for to-day.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
MONDAY, June 18, 1866.

The general markets present no new features worthy of special notice. Our merchants generally report business exceedingly dull and depressed, and as the demand for all of the leading articles of trade is restricted almost entirely to supplying immediate wants, we have but very few round lot operations to record, and prices, generally, are still tending downward.

GRAIN—There is nothing doing in Wheat. Oats dull, with a drooping tendency; sale of 200 bush, on wharf, at 62c—small sales in store, at 68@70c. Corn is dull but unchanged—85@90 for prime Yellow. Rye is dull and nominal at $1,20@1,25. Barley may be quoted at $1@1,10 for good to choice Spring.

FLOUR—Continues very dull and neglected, and prices are still tending downward. We now quote at $11,50@12,25 for good to choice Spring Wheat; $12,75@13,25 for Winter Wheat, and $17@17,50 for fancy brands. Rye Flour is dull and nominal at $9.

PROVISIONS—There is a very good demand for Bacon, and Sugar Cured Hams are held at a slight advance, 16@16½c for Canvassed. Shoulders remain unchanged at 9½c, and Sides at 11½c for Ribbed, and 12½c for Clear. Lard is dull but unchanged at 13c. Dried Beef 23@24c. Little or no demand for Mess Pork.

POTATOES—The demand continues light, and the market is dull, with a drooping tendency. We continue to quote prime Peach Blows in store, at $1,25 per bush.

EGGS—In consequence of increased arrivals, and an apparent falling off in the demand, prices have declined, one of the largest holders putting them to 20c to-day.

BUTTER—There is rather more inquiry for prime fresh Butter, and as it is scarce, it sells without much difficulty at 17@18c. Common and inferior is hard to sell at any price.

CHEESE—Continues dull and unchanged. Small sales at 14c for Western Reserve, and 15c @16c for Hamburg and Factory.

DRIED FRUIT—Very dull, and holders are anxious to close out. We continue to quote at 6@7c for Apples, and 10@13c for Peaches.

HAY—Prime Hay is in moderate demand at previous prices, while common and inferior is unsaleable at any price.

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY, June 18, 1867.

CATTLE.

The market was again a hard one this week, notwithstanding the supply was hardly up to that of last week, and, strange as it may appear, with less than five hundred head of cattle on sale, about seven car loads were left over unsold. The secret is the fact that prices are entirely too high, though they cannot be reduced here until there is a material decline in the West, and besides, the demand for fresh meat always falls off during the warm season, and as a consequence, a much smaller number of cattle are required by the butchers. Prices, compared with last week underwent but little change, ranging from 8¾ to 9½c. for prime to choice fat retailing cattle and possibly a few extra may have brought a fraction more. There was not, it was alleged, a single hoof here from Chicago this week, and our drovers tell us that they can buy a better quality of cattle for less money, much nearer home. It is out of the question to think of shipping cattle from Chicago at present to this market, and as a consequence, there will be but few Pittsburgh buyers in that market for some time to come. There seems to be less inquiry for stock cattle, and the market for this particular grade is dull and unchanged.

REPORTED SALES OF CATTLE.

Rothchilds & Byers sold Greenwald & Kahn 15 head of prime Southern Ohio steers, averaging 1510 pounds, on private terms—understood to be about 9¼, and the same firm retailed 50 head at 8 to 9¾. Greenwald & Kahn retailed 37 head at 7¼ to 9—3 car loads left over. L. Rothchilds, 25 head at 7 to 9; J. Shamberg, 17 head at 5¾ to 8. Chas. Shomaker sold Greenwald & Kahn 18 head of fairish Ohio steers, averaging about 1050, at 8. McAllister & Carr sold 10 head at 6¼; and about 40 head at 5 to 9,35. John Kerwin sold for Isaac Anderson 19 head of mixed Ohio stock at 7 to 8¼. Emerick & Co., 13 head at 7¼ to 8. Doud & Verner, 17 head at 8 to 9¾. Marks & Traurman, 45 head at 5¾ to 9¼. Katz & Bro., 11 head at 6 to 7,50. Hazlewood & Blackstock, 13; Myers & Needy, 47; Stakely, 15; Lafferty & Glass, 9.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The market for this class of stock was a hard one, and there were some very hard droves of Sheep on sale. As has been the case for some weeks past, there was a fair demand for prime fat mutton Sheep, but common and inferior are hard to sell at any price. The former may be quoted at 5½ to 6c, in a retail way, and the outside figure only for prime fat Sheep; the commoner kinds cannot be quoted correctly. Lambs remain about as last quoted, $2@3,50 per head.

HOGS.

There is little or nothing doing in Hogs at these yards, excepting in a retail way, and we continue to quote at 7 to 7¼, for good to prime heavy averages, and 6¼ to 6½ for light weights.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY, June 18, 1867.

CRUDE—There was not a single operation in crude to-day, at least we had no sales reported. Spot oil is offering at 6c, with but few buyers, and June and July could probably be had at 6¼. We heard of one negotiation pending for 10,000 bbls at 6c, to be delivered within a short time, and we believe there are buyers for all the year 18,8, buyers option, at 12¼, and but few sellers below 13. It was reported to-day that oil has declined to $2 per bbl at Oil City—the report of $1.90 yesterday was not correct.

REFINED—There is no improvement to note in the general tone of the market for bonded oil, though, to-day, there were apparently, more buyers than sellers, and but few of either. We can report a sale of 600 barrels standard white, for immediate delivery in Philadelphia, at 22c; 1000 for August, at 21c; 1000 for September, at 23¼c, and 3000 barrels, 500 each from July to December, at 24¼c. This last sale is the lowest one reported this season for that delivery, and from this it must be acknowledged that the bottom has not yet been reached.

ARRIVALS—The following arrivals of oil were reported to-day:

RIVER NEWS.

The river remains stationary at this point with scant three feet on Glass House. We had several heavy showers of rain yesterday, and while these showers may not produce a rise, they will at least hold the water in check.

The Glendale succeeded in getting up from Glass House, and the Leni Leoti arrived and cleared for Parkersburg. The Lorena, from St. Louis, and the Argosy, from Cincinnati, were expected in last evening. The Argosy will return to-day as usual, and passengers and shippers should bear this fact in mind. The Leclaire No. 2, Capt. Saint, will leave for Parkersburg on Thursday in place of the Bayard.

The Armadillo, Capt. D. H. Swaney, is announced to leave for St. Louis on Thursday without fail. She is a large and reliable steamer, and offers superior accommodations to passengers. Capt. Swaney is well-known here, being at one time connected with the Wheeling trade.

The Argosy, Capt. Vandergrift, is the regular packet for Cincinnati to-day, leaving at noon, and the Delaware, Capt. Drennan, leaves for Parkersburg at the same hour.

We are pained to learn that the Mr. Edward Albert, clerk of the steamer Lorena, fell overboard from that boat on Saturday last, near Parkersburg, and was drowned. The deceased was a most estimable young man; was, we believe, a nephew of Capt. Shuman, of the Lorena, and was for a considerable time clerk of the Nora, under Capt. H. H. Devinney's administration. It is reported that Mr. Albert was to have been married in a short time to a young lady of Cincinnati. The body at last accounts had not been recovered.

The lower end of the landing is again pretty well filled up with towboats, and it looks now as though they would have to remain there until towards fall.

Advices have been received from the Mountain steamer, Ida Stockdale, up to May 28th, at which time she was at Fort Rice. She was getting along finely, and while the river was falling, the weather had become very pleasant. The clerk, Mr. Thos. Calhoun, writes that the Ida is just 14½ days ahead of the Amelia Poe's run of last year to same place.

The Ezra Porter is now loading at Cincinnati for New Orleans, being in turn after the Westmoreland.

We extract the following items from the Cincinnati Gazette, of Monday: The Kate Putnam came down from Pittsburgh yesterday, about 2 o'clock, and after remaining at the wharf two hours, proceeded on her way to St. Louis. She has on board 1060 bars of railroad iron, 1700 boxes of window glass, and other freight, which will make her a 500 ton trip. She lost thirty-six hours at Glass House and one night by fog. She did not take on any freight here.

The Westmoreland cleared for New Orleans yesterday morning with a fair trip, and engagements below to fill out to her utmost capacity. She received a quantity of freight from the Columbia.

The Sherman got away last evening, after waiting several hours for the R. R. Hudson. The latter gave her all the St. Louis freight and passengers she had on board. The Sherman was well down in the water.

The Columbia came in yesterday from Pittsburgh, with a tolerable load. Her Louisville freight, sixty tuns, went on the America, and her New Orleans freight on the Westmoreland.

The Camelia came in yesterday from Tennessee river with a splendid trip. She had on board 250 sacks of peanuts, 200 tuns of iron, 72 hogsheads of tobacco, 75 bales of cotton, 50,000 staves and a quantity of miscellaneous freight. She will reload at once for a return trip.

John Johnston, of Hawkinsport, West Virginia, was killed on Tuesday on board the steamer D. Lynch, on the Ohio river, near Ravenswood, by George W. Wiggins, acting steward of the boat. Johnston was intoxicated, and made some remark offensive to Wiggins at the table, and the latter struck him with a butcher knife, causing almost immediate death.

A THRILLING INCIDENT.—On the last trip of the steamer Mississippi from this city to New Orleans, the following huge sell was perpetrated on a verdant Englishman, who had been an inhabitant of this "blasted country" but a short time, but already fully impressed by his short residence North, with the blood and thunder nature of the people South. Some political discussion took place between the noble Briton, and a Texan, which resulted in the former getting slapped in the mouth.

The Briton did not, at the time, resent the insult, but talked considerably about it afterwards, and next morning (Monday) stated that he had not been able to sleep for thinking of it; and that he could not rest until the disgrace was wiped out. The genial Captain Thompson, hearing this, suggested that there was a good time for a mock duel, and with the passengers, at once got the affair up in the most approved style. The Texan, however, had to be let into the joke. The preliminaries were soon settled, and at 3 p. m., when the boat landed to wood, the principals, seconds, revolvers, etc., were escorted by an excited crowd (some few in the secret) to the edge of a small wood, and the distance marked. The Briton, with pallid checks and cleaving tongue, here took a last lingering look at the glorious earth and sky, bid an affectionate adieu to his acquaintances, and particularly impressed upon his second's mind what he desired done with his body and effects, in case he fell.

The men were placed. An awful silence hung over the looker-on and surrounding woods, in which the startling words, "Are you ready?" and the signal pistol sounded with fearful distinctiveness. They wheeled and fired. At the second shot the Texan fell mortally wounded, to the horror of the Briton and uninitiated, and then, after struggling in the agonies of death for some minutes, quietly arose, walked with unfaltering steps, to the bar, and took a horn as big as a mule's ear, at the Englishman's expense.—St. Louis Dispatch.

The St. Louis Democrat, of Monday, says: Three boats arrived yesterday from Fort Benton with treasure, buffalo robes, peltries and passengers, and one from Fort Rice, reminding us of the immense resources of the far west yet undeveloped. The Only Chance left Benton June 4th; time to St. Louis eleven and a half days. The Waverly left Benton June 31 at 10 a. m.; time to St. Louis, thirteen and a one-twelfth days. The Deer Lodge, from Benton, Marcella, from Rice and Gerard Allen all made good time. The fact is, the state of the river is in the best condition for navigation, and likely to continue so for some time. Boats will arrive almost daily from the mountains for weeks to come. Business last week was large, but tonnage always in excess.

A dispatch from St. Joseph dated Saturday, says: On the 6th day of June the Belk range of mountains, which lie south and east of Fort Benton, were entirely covered with snow. The Bear Paw mountains which lie north of Benton were also covered with snow. The Cora brought down 35,000 dollars in gold dust belonging to passengers and a large amount consigned to Leary and Rowell, freighters of this city. She has also on board about 800 packages of furs, pelts, &c. The river is higher owing to the heavy rise in the Yellowstone. Quite a number of boats are expected shortly to arrive. This afternoon the Northwest Fur Company's boat the Miner, arrived from Fort Benton, having left there June 3. She brought down 75 passengers and 1400 packages of ropes, besides a large amount of gold dust.

The Winona Republican says the Sucker waited three hours to start with the Belle, and they struck their bells, pulled in their gangways, and backed out at the same time. The run to Hastings was a very close one, but the Belle beat by thirteen minutes. The entire run from St. Paul to Winona—168 miles—was made by the Belle in nine hours and forty-five minutes; about seventeen miles per hour. She arrived here at 3:45. The Sucker came in just one hour later.
